News Briefs:

Strip Word Formatting after Paste:

Ever wonder why there is suddenly an appearance of odd characters after you have pasted text from Word into the RadEditor? Please remember when using copy and paste from Microsoft Word, that the code is cleaned before saving. This is because Microsoft Word adds excess html code that may not be compatible for all browsers. The "Format Stripper"  button in the text editor allows you to strip the Word-specific tags from the text after it has been copied.

For any questions, please send an e-mail to: petespagebuilder@utep.edu.

What's New with Pete's Pagebuilder!

New!

On Thursday, June 25th, 2009 from 3:00 pm to 4:00 pm the Pete's Pagebuilder User Group meeting will be held. These meetings are held to discuss any issues a user may be experiencing, ideas and suggestions on how they would like to use the tool as well as any feedback the user may have. The meetings are scheduled to be held in the IT Conference Room located in the UNWE building – Lower Level.

Please send any questions you may have about the user group meeting to petespagebuilder@utep.edu.

Your attendance is very important to us, hope to see you there!

We are currently in the process of testing DNN 4.9.2 Pro...

We are currently testing DNN 4.9.2 Pro in the test environment. A production release date has not been determined but periodic updates of the progress will be given. Please check the Pete's Pagebuilder site for any important updates about the upgrade.

VERY IMPORTANT REMINDER:

Your input is needed to help make Pete's Pagebuilder a premium tool, please take a few minutes to complete this survey:

Customized skins created using Pete's Pagebuilder:

In the last few months several Pete's Pagebuilder administrators have been creating their own customized skins. Here are just a few examples of layouts that were created using Pete's Pagebuilder:

- Soon to be released University College web site.

- New Student Orientation
<http://academics.utep.edu/orientation>

- Health Update web site
